

Thomas Molnar's 7th Grade Report Card

Anyakönyvi sz.: 22.
Molnár Tamás tanuló

Félévi Ertesítője
Bizonysítvány
hetedik osztályban
nyolcadik tanulmányi minőségben tanúsított előmenetéről.

A tanári testület általános ítélete:
A nyolcadik osztályba léphet.

Kelt Budapest 1949. június hó 18-án.
(P. H.)
Grünvald Miklós a. i. Márton M. Benő dr. s. k.

Magatartás	jó
Hitt és erkölcszet	elégőséges
Magyar nyelv és irodalom	jó
Történelem, állami ismeretekkel	elégőséges
Gazdasági és társadalmi ismeretek	elégőséges
Föld- és néprajz	elégőséges
Latin nyelv	elégőséges
Állam- és történelem	elégőséges
Matematika	közepes
Angol nyelv és irodalom	elégőséges
Biológia
Tanulmányi rajz
Vegyis
Tanulmányi	elégőséges
Menyiség és morál	közepes
Rajz, a műalkotások ismeretével	jó
Tanulmányi	közepes
Égészet
Szépirodalom
Gyógyítás
Ének	kötve
Kézírás

Általános tanuló, közepes
A tanulmányi órák száma 18 igazolt, igazolatlanság.

This is my report card from the 7th grade of high school. I was quite a diligent pupil in elementary school, with all excellent grades, but I didn't really like school. In high school I only had bad grades because I didn't study. I might be partial, but there weren't teachers like there anywhere else. I didn't like mathematics, though my teacher was very good, I still didn't like it. I was better at the humanities. I hated mathematics and physics. I always just somehow passed these two; regardless of this I liked the teacher because he was sensational. He didn't like me, but he didn't make me feel it, he was a really good teacher. He tried to make physics and mathematics interesting. I liked English, history and Hungarian. I only learned foreign languages - English and Latin - at school I didn't need any private lessons. There were three English classes a week and I didn't only do the homework, but I also read in English. I read Shakespeare in English when I was 12-13 years old. I had a very good dictionary; everything I needed was in there. In high school there was a literary and debating society, but I wasn't a member of that. I rather went in for sports. I went in for very many sports. I played soccer, ice hockey, handball and basketball. These especially at school, at the Jewish high school. I don't remember how I started ice hockey. And the equipment for that wasn't cheap either, but for these kinds of things there was always money. If the school team needed a ball for example, my father bought it and took it in. But I mainly played soccer. I played soccer day and night. I was the goalkeeper of the school team. When I was a 6th grader I was already a goalkeeper in the school team, which was mainly composed of 8th graders. Then in 1946 I had poliomyelitis, my arm became paralyzed, and from then on I was a left back. By the time this school year ended I was already in Vienna. My father arranged so that they would issue my 7th grade report card. He thought that I might need it, that it would be good for something. But it wasn't good for anything, it wasn't worth anything.