

Postcard From Gabor Paneth's Grandfather Adolf Paneth To His Son Lajos Paneth

(Editor's Note: This is the other side of the card that Gabor's grandfather sent to his son in Budapest in 1911. In the text, the grandfather talks about his children, about Janka who married a Hasidic religious teacher and moved with him to Beregszasz, in the North-Eastern part of Hungary, Herman -- who, as Gabor thinks, is the man on the picture and who died in the WWI--and Jolan, who lived with the parents.)
